

WORK SHEET – Exercise 10A

What's intelligence?

What's intelligence? It's a lot richer and more complex than you think. Here are some scenarios to explore and think about. First by yourself: Do you agree or not? Then you can discuss intelligence with your friends.

Intelligence is:

When you work hard to learn something?

and/or

When you understand something easily?

When you think logically?

and/or

Every time you listen to what your emotions are telling you?

When you're slow?

and/or

When you're fast?

When you develop one of your talents?

and/or

Every time you let your imagination wander?

When you don't know something yet?

and/or

When you know something, and you master it?

When you're curious, attentive and focused?

and/or

Every time you help a friend to better work through their emotions?

When you solve a maths problem?

and/or

When you sort out a problem you have with one of your friends?

When you have an established way or routine of doing things that you have mastered well?

and/or

When you adapt to a situation by imagining another way of doing it?

Exercise inspired by « C'est quoi être intelligent ? », Philéas & Autobule, nr 43, February-March 2015.